But that's not the only deportation program the White House is threatening to end. The administration is also preparing to end a program that protects some 870,000 immigrants brought to the U.S. as children, known as Dreamers. This move would add them to a deportation list that already includes people who have been convicted of serious crimes. If it goes through, President Trump's plan to wind down the DACA program could put in jeopardy the lives of as many as 1.8 million Dreamers—the group now known as Deferred Action for Parents of Americans and Lawful Permanent Residents — and they could be deported even if they're not convicted of a criminal offense. But the administration would likely argue that since Dreamers are not actually U.S. citizens, the law does not apply to them. This would also b7e8fdf5c8

I have some code that looks like this: inputBox = input("Enter an input: ") import pickle with open("input.txt", "rb") as f: inputFile = pickle.load(f) with open("input.txt", "wb") as f: pickle.dump(inputFile, f) I want to have the input be either a file or a variable, since that way it will dynamically run no matter what the input is. This is for a homework assignment, so I can't show you the output, but I know the input for it and it should be simple. The purpose of this is so that I can make the script run just by typing a name and hit enter. I am pretty new to python, so it was suggested to me to convert all variables to files. For this purpose, I think that'd be the best way to go. Can someone point me in the right direction? I would really appreciate it. A: Python is a scripting language and for this kind of scripts it is recommended to write a script in Shell (Shell Script) and then add the variable as a parameter. Your code looks right for a Shell script. [Bronchoscopy and operations under local anesthesia].
