John Yarmuth, the ranking member of the Budget Committee, and Democratic leader Nancy Pelosi are pushing a proposal that would legalize the collection of people's data through smart meters and cell phones. Yarmuth, Pelosi, and other establishment politicians are calling for more surveillance through water and electricity metering as they push to approve smart meters. The push to put spy technology inside people's water and electricity meters comes on the heels of Yarmuth and Pelosi's "privacy protection" bill, which failed by a 49 to 48 vote margin in May.

House Majority Whip Steny Hoyer (D-MD) and other "establishment" politicians are pushing to put spy technology inside people's water and electricity meters. The House has approved an omnibus spending bill to keep the government funded through the fiscal year. A majority of the legislation contains dozens of controversial provisions. The measure contains the expiration of the so-called "Dreamers" and the mass importation of Syrian and other Middle Eastern refugees. It could also fund U.S. support for the Saudi-backed war in Yemen and the installation of advanced spying technology inside people's homes. The funding bill is also one of the most secretive to be passed by Congress. The bill was "rushed" through Congress and few members of Congress were given a chance to read it. House Speaker Paul Ryan rushed through the bill, signing it June 11 and sending it to President Donald Trump. The White House has not yet issued its final approval of the bill. The Congressional Progressive Caucus, Peace Action, the Progressive Campaign for Action, and many other progressive organizations have condemned the omnibus spending bill. The caucus is calling for Rep. John Yarmuth (D-KY) to be censured or removed from his post as House Budget Committee Chairman. The group believes that Yarmuth and other “establishment” politicians are undermining the House as a “no” option and are bringing harmful measures to the floor for a simple vote. Rep.
