it s only a month old and i have no idea where to find the password for the microsoft products. the one thing i can find is a driver for the hardrive but it doesn t say who it is for. the mother board manufacturer s number is: p4g8x motherboard. the hardrive model number is hd36s (2gb) any ideas where i can find a password for the microsoft products. the user guide on the computer shows 3 operating systems are on the hardrive the only one on its own is windows 7 starter. is there anyway of getting it to work when it starts up can you please help. well, windows doesn t call them operating systems, so i guess that what you are after is the oem (original equipment manufacturer). the oem should be able to provide you with a full installation dvd for windows 7 starter. they will also have a recovery partition, but it will not make recovery of the recovery partition any easier. i will need to contact the oem who sold it to me, but i also feel that there may be a fault within the hard drive. you may also like to download windows vista home premium. the windows 7 starter pack comes with windows media player 12 and so does vista home premium. windows 7 starter can be very use but if you want more, there are other editions of windows 7 such as enterprise, professional, and ultimate. in case you are not aware, all of these editions are for personal use and not enterprise. the oem license key for windows 7 starter is 05817-033-29647. the windows 7 starter package includes windows media player 12 and a bunch of other utilities that make it easier to work with a standard pc. unlike the other versions of windows, the starter editions are not supplied with a recovery partition. the windows 7 starter edition is aimed at people who use their computers to store personal information. it can be used if your system only needs a browser and an internet connection and youre not a serious computer user. well start off by uninstalling any pre-installed software and any utilities you do not want or need. locate the windows 7 installation dvd or usb or if you had it mailed to you, have the package sitting out. make sure you backup all your files. 5ec8ef588b
